VII. AREAS OF RESEARCH INTEREST

- A. Infant-parent and child-parent attachment in high- and low-risk populations.
- B. Effects of separations between young children and their caregivers.
- C. Parent-child interaction and attachment patterns in foster and adoptive families.

- D. Family structure and functioning in families with disabled and chronically ill children.
- E. Development and assessment of treatment protocols for specific pediatric clinical groups, including reflex neurovascular dystrophy, psychogenic pain, failure-to-thrive, reactive attachment disorders, parenting strategies for ADHD.

VIII. CURRENT RESEARCH PROJECTS

- A. Child-parent attachment and family functioning in families having preschool children with cerebral palsy, epilepsy, or craniofacial anomalies.
- B. Patterns of child-parent attachment, and of parent-child caregiving, in British families who have adopted Romanian-born, institutionalized, infants and preschool children. In collaboration with Professor Sir Michael Rutter, and Professor Thomas G. O'Connor, Institute of Psychiatry, London.
- C. Development of attachment-based intervention protocols for families raising children with problematic attachments (current samples are: Head Start/Early Head Start children; young mothers serving prison terms; young mothers in high school; and children in Foster Care/Adoptive care).

IX. TEACHING ACTIVITIES

A. Classroom, Seminar, Teaching Laboratory

- |              |   |
|--------------|---|
| 1972-79      | Two undergraduate and two graduate courses in developmental psychology and human ethology, UVA Department of Psychology.  |
| 1980-90      | Guest lecturer in graduate courses in Psychology and in Education (average of four/year).   |
| 1980-2000    | KCRC pediatric psychology clinical seminar. 1-hour lectures to psychology interns and residents on a range of clinical topics. Average of four/year.                        |
| 1980-2000    | Developmental Pediatric Resident Rounds. 1-hour lectures to pediatric residents and faculty. Frequency variable from year to year (4 in 1997-98).                           |
